- ▶ Real Estate Exhibition
- ▶ Caucasus Build

The event will feature honorable guests, distinguished speakers and bilateral partners from the National Association of Realtors® and Fiabci Georgia and will be a wonderful opportunity to build professional network and expand knowledge of the real estate market in the Caucasus region, Baltic states, European Union countries and beyond.

GEORGIAN REAL ESTATE MARKET OVERVIEW

In the past three years, the demand for real estate in Georgia has witnessed a notable surge. Increased migration to the country has notably bolstered the demand for rental apartments, leading to an unprecedented rise in rental income. Consequently, real estate prices across all districts of Tbilisi have experienced significant escalation. This surge in prices and demand has been observed in both new construction and pre-owned apartments, as well as in commercial real estate.

It should be noted that 95% of the apartments in most of the development projects that will be completed in 2024 have been sold.

Georgia has gained the status of a candidate country for the European Union in 2023, which, according to experts, will further strengthen the trend of growing demand for real estate and ensure the stability of the investment environment.
